CIES FIXED. The Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen had no disagreement over the tax budget at its meeting yesterday, but reported to the Board the amount to be added for definiencies as recom-mended by Controller Fitch. While the report went over for a week under the rule, there is no expectation of a contest over the budget in the Board of Aldermen. The amount to be added for deficiencies in 1897 is $902,847 st, and with that sum added the budget for this year is $15.222,40281. Of this sum $5.451,11021 is for State taxes $2.915.227 37 is for the redemption of the city debt. $5.654.28 33 is for the payment of interest on the city debt, and the sum of $31,311,106 72 is for paying the current expenses | Rapid Transit Commission hearing, No. 256 of the city. The tax rate, therefore, will be $2.10 | Breadway, 11 a. m. on the $100 of assessed valuation.

On account of the report of Monday, to the effect tan that Controller Fitch had included deficiencies of past years in the amount to be added to the budget, the following statement was issued from budget, the following statement was issued from the Finance Department yesterlay:

The amount added for "deficiencies" is not for deficiencies of past years at all. It is for deficiencies which will occur in the collection of taxes for the year 187 alone. To speak of it as made up of old deficiencies is absurd. If any attempt were made to cover old deficiencies of past years, sevmade to cover old deficiencies of the amount for "deficiencies," the Finance Pepartment has gone to the extreme in making that amount as small as possible. Notwithstanding that the budget is larger this year than last by $42,672 is, the amount estimated for deficiencies is actually somewhat less—$502,87 64, as agains, $502,055 ft. The percentages which these amounts bear to the total tax levies of the two years are respectively 1,501 percent and 2018 per cent. The average percentage which the amounts included for "deficiencies" during the last twenty years have borne to the tax levies of those years has been 2,632 per cent. The percentage this year is therefore much less than the normal proportion. the Finance Department yesterlay:

the normal proportion.

New-York City's tax rates are always adopted in "even figures," I c., no greater decimal than hundredths of I per cent are employed. If $2.11 had been adopted as the rate the deficiency item would have been about $1.120.60. This amount would perhans, in the light of rate experience, have been a more conservative estimate than the firster adopted, but it would have exceeded somewhat the average percentage of the deficiency item, and in view of the already large burden of taxation imposed by the largest budget in the history of the city, it was decided to recommend the smaller figure.

A tax rate of $1.00 would have given a deficiency item of about $886,00, which, of course, would have been absurdly inadequate. For the Board of Aidermen to select such a figure would be a gross abuse of discretion, and this rate was, therefore, not seriously considered.

TRAVELLERS FROM THE KLONDIKE TELL OF THE RESOURCES OF THE REGION THE PERILS OF THE JOURNEY

TO THE GOLD FIELDS.

GOLD FOR ALL COMERS.

The Klondikers have come to town—"some in rags, some in tags, and some in velvet gowns," to quote the old rhyme. Mostly h, velvet gowns, however, as it takes a good deal of money to get from Alaska to New-York, and the unfortunate prospectors, as a rale, are stranded on the Pacific Sicpe. The uptown hotels are now entertaining a number of returned travellers from the Yukon country, and these same gold-hunters are entertaining the other guests of the hotels with as welrd stories as any one would naturally look for. Each day records new arrivals, and the stories told of the gold fields of Alaska rival the stories of the Argenauts of '49. A tall, well-built, bronzed and Argonauts of '49. A tall, well-built, bronzed and brawny man leaned against the counter of the Imperial Hotel last night and talked of the Klondike and its gold. He had just deposited two bottles of gold-rough, jagged nuggets-in the safe, but he had more gold in his pocket that had been minted into legal-tender coin. He was telling of the Yuken country, and as a final burst said:
"Why, it cos's a dollar to get shaved up there. I went into that country four years ago and got clear out of the track of civilization. You can imagine what I looked like when I got back to Dawson City. The first place I hunted up was a barber shop. I had a healthy beard on my face and was glad to get shaved. As I went out I saw the barbers carefully gather up the beard, and I learned next day that they had refined the hair and secured about $13 worth of fine gold dust. You see, it blows through the air up there, and-say, it's time to have a drink."

There is no doubt that, aside from these extravagant stories, those men who have endured the rights of that country and worked like day laborers in the quest of gold have a deep and abiding faith in the wealth of Alaska. A. E. Ironmonger-Sola, who has just returned from the Klondike, is staying at the Imperial Hotel. Mr. Ironmonger Sola is a young Englishman, who has been remarkably fortunate. He has large interests there now, and came away with a good stock of gold.

"I wouldn't advise any one to go in there and try it out individually," he said last night, "The work is hard, and the return too uncertain. There is no doubt but that the country is wonderfully rich, but the climate is severe and the methods of ransportation meagre as yet. Alaska will never be anything but a mining country. Its wealth is practically inexhaustible, and many fortunes will n locating pay claims. I have my ground staked off now, and am ready to let somebody else stand the rough work. The country is filling up rapidly. Many will be disappointed and others will succeed. got out before the rush set in and have no idea opens. There is plenty of room for all comers if they are prepared, but those who go expecting to secure provisions there will be disappointed."

Joseph Ladue, one of the largest owners of mining interests in and around Dawson City is at the Waldorf. Mr. Ladue, like all others, talks enthusiastically about the wonderful wealth of the Klondike country. Mr. Ladue incorporated a company yesterday in New-Jersey which bears his name. It is to be known as the Joseph Ladue Gold wrote HER WILL AND ANNOUNCED THAT SHE name. It is to be known as the Joseph Ladue Gold Mining and Developing Company. The other incorporators are Elmer F. Battsford and Albert N. Emery of Platisburg: Edgar B. Bronson and Willard Brown, of New-York, and Charles C. Lapham, of Lapham, N. Y. Portus B. Weare, of Chicago, came to the Holland House last night, and within a tew moments was the centre of a little coterie of Kloudike enthusiasts.

House last night, and within a few moments was the centre of a little coterie of Kloudike enthalsiasts.

"The Kloudike promises great things." Mr. Weare said. "The reward for a day's work varies from $1 to $400, according to the locality. While all sections may not be as rich as the streams around the Kloudike, the whole country, as a rule, is rich in gold. It is not a country, as a rule, is rich in gold. It is not a country, as a single mine. I look forward to seeing thousands upon thousands of individual claims worked by individuals. It will be a great country for the men thrown out of work by the shutting down of the silver mines, and others who care to undergo the discomforts and risks for the chance of gain.

"The reports about scarcity of food and the danger of many starving to death because of the marger of many starving to death because of the marger of many starving to death because of the marger of maty starving to death because do the interior wisely issued a warning against this. The Chilkoot trail has been so arranged by nature that only a certain number of men can get over it within the time that it is open for transportation. Probably six thousand men will get over and get down to the Klondike during this term. Now nearly all of these will carry their own provisions. But in case a man zoes over and takes the risk of getting supplies in the Klondike, he will find that those who have already reached the fields will count noses and as eye that the newcomer cannot be accommodated they will say to him: Now, you keep on moving until you get to the mouth of the Vukon. He will do this if he is wise. All I have to say is that if a man starves to death in the Klondike he will be a chumo."

ocen sent to the Kloudike gold fields. They are the Rev. S. Hall Young, of Wooster, Ohio, and the Rev. George A. McEwen, of Farmington, Mo. Soon upon their journey through the wilds of Alaska on Friday last. The selection of the two men best fitted for the undertaking was left to the Rev. D. J. McMillan, the corresponding secretary of the Board, dighted upon two vigerous and aggressive ministers of the church who have both had many years' exof the church, who have been and many years experience in Alaska in transing the Gospel to the natives. The missionaries will proceed by way of the Chilkoot Pass to their destination. This overland route is the one most beset with difficulties, but because of their knowledge of the conditions of the country no apprehension is felt by the Board for the safety of the missionaries. As soon as they peach the mining camps they will at once open a religious meeting-house of some kind. It is likely that they will have to build the new mission house themselves.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Word has reached the Government authorities that British steamers are landing freign; and passengers at Skagway. Alaska, instead of at Dyea, in direct violation of the law, Dyea is the sub-port of entry on the Lynn Canal, and Skagway is six miles off. The matter will be investigated by this Government. The sub-port was established at Dyea several weeks ago at the request of the Canadian Government to save passengers the annoyance of disembarking at Juneau and awaiting another steamer for Dyea. The request came from Canada about a month ago, and the action of the Administration in establishing the sub-port permitted the Canadian vessels to enter at Dyea and land passengers and bagsage there.

TO WIND UP THE COMPANY.

CIRCULAR SENT TO METROPOLITAN TRACTION STOCKHOLDERS-WHAT THE LATTER WILL RECEIVE.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Metropolitan Traction Company has been called for Sepember 14, to vote on a proposition to wind up the company. The explanation is made in a circular, signed by the president, H. H. Vreeland, that the purposes for which the company was formed have been accomplished. The object of the company was to secure and bring together street railway lines. The circular says: "The combined property is directly represented by the capital stock of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, now in the hands of the traction company. empany are the real owners. There seems to be no reason why these owners should not now reno reason why these owners should not new re-ceive the stock which directly represents their prop-erty, and at the same time be relieved from the new unnecessary burden of double administration, and very heavy double taxation.

There is $20,20,000 of other stocks and bonds in stock and $6,000,000 of other stocks and bonds in the company's freasury. Traction company stock-holders will receive for their holdings an equal amount of Metropolitan Street Railway stock and 20 per cent in other securities.

A LITTLE GIRL'S QUEER FREAK.

WAS GOING TO JERSEY CITY TO DIE-FOUND HIDING IN THE CELLAR OF HER HOME.

then hiding for several hours in the cellar. Before she left her home she wrote a note saying that she had decided to commit suicide, and another one which read: "Tula, you can have my basket. Gumpy, you can have my Andersen's 'Fairy Tales.' The quilt is for mamma's Christmas." The notes were found on the staircase in the morning. When Florence was two years old her parents died, and her uncle. Charles Cox, an expressman, adopted her. Florence behaved badly on Monday afternoon, and Mrs. Cox chastised her. The girl's sensitive nature was deeply touched by the punishment she had received. She brooded over the matter, and when night came she had concluded that she could end all her troubles by killing herself. She unbosomed her thoughts to a young playmate, Nellie Russell, of No. 605 Hudson-st., while they were in Abingdon Square on Monday night.

"Oh, I can't stand being whipped any longer," exclaimed Florence to Neille, as she told of the punishment she had received early in the day. "I an going away to Jersey City, and there I will die." exclaimed received early in the day. "I am going away to Jersey City, and there I will die." Nellie was dimfounded by the terrible words of her playmate. "Come with me," continued Florence, come with me, we will de together."

The two girls patted in front of Flotence's home after Florence had promised her friend that she would not do anything rash. Nellie could not sleep that night, for her head was in a whirl owing to the strange behavior of Florence. She was so positive that her companion was in carnest about killing herself that she thought it was her duty to tell her friend's parents. With this patrose in tell her friend's parents. With this patrose in view she went to the Cox home about midnight and in a trembling volce asked Mr. Cox if Florence was in the house. Mr. Cox looked into the room wis in the house only a few minutes before Nelle's visit, on learning the reason of the girls call Mr. Cox informed the police, but they were unable to find any trace of the missing child. After returning from Police Headquarters in the morning Mr. Cox found in notes written by Florence.

Soon after 16 o'clock the following rote was found in the letter-loox: Dearest Mamma: I can't die with out bidding you goodby. I want to kiss you once before I die. Come and find me soon or I shail die of starvation. This note bed Mrs. Cox to believe that the absent girl was somewhere in the house and she began a zearch of the premises. Florence was found later in the cellar of the house, cryling bitterly. She had been in hising in the cellar from politicity and wanted to be found. "I truended to go away and die, ane added, "but when I thought of the baby and mamma I cond not bear to do it and I went into the bassment. The more I dien't wan to die.

SMALL PARKS ON LEASED PROPERTY.

hat the vacant lots owned by the Manhattan that the vacant lots bailed by a Railway Company under the elevated structure at the One-hundred-and-tenth-st, curve, between Eighth and Ninth aves, might be leased to the city and turned into small parks. The company owns two entire city blocks there; one bounded by one-hundred-and-tenth-st. Eighth-ave, and One-hundred-and-tenth-st. Eighth-ave, and the one-hundred-and-tenth-st. They are in a neglected state, partly overgrown with weeds and partly used as a dumping ground for askes and cinders. Officials have said that the planting of shrubs and trees would beautify the landscape there greatly, and that it could be done at small expense by the city if there was a lease by the indiway company to justify such a proceeding.

Mr. Fransfoll, the manager of the company, said to a Tribane reporter on Monday that he did not believe any official of the company would be willing to vote for such a lease, as the land near the One-hundred-and-tenth-st. curve is included in the company's property subject to mortgage. Mayor Strong said yesteriasy that he did not think the city would want to make small parks on leased property. The city is spending a great deal of morey for small parks now, he notice.
